

Intensive Housing Policy Payne Campus

Temporary housing is available for out-of-town students who travel to Payne Seminary campus to take Intensive courses. The Seminary does not provide transportation. Students must make arrangements for transportation before arrival.

Students attending intensives at offsite locations are responsible for all lodging and travel charges. The Academic Services office can provide information on hotel and transportation options for your convenience.

As a reminder, we are housing Wilberforce University students on Payne's campus; therefore, we have contracted with the Ramada Inn, in Xenia, for student lodging during our Intensive classes. Students who have not received a confirmation for a room through Payne before the class begins, will be responsible for their own accommodation arrangements and will not be included in the Payne rooming list.
